INDEX

—A—

Acid rain, 29
Acoustical properties, 11
Administrators, role of, in elementary setting, 50–51
Affective domain, 163–64
  learning process in, 46–48
  verbs in, 164
Airbus, 22
Allied Signal, and recycling, 29
American Association of Sciences, Project 2061, 2, 117–18, 176
American Industry Project, 215
Applied science approach to studying technology, 2
APT (Automatic Programming Tool), 32
Assembly, 13
Assessment, distinction between evaluation and, 167–68
Atlantic Richfield Company (ARCO), and the environment, 23
AT&T, and recycling, 29
Attentional set, 160
Automatic product identification (API), 148
Automatic Programming Tool (APT), 32
Automation, 43
  trends in, 32–33
Automation alley, 30
Automation/control/computer applications experience, 142–48

—B—

Bar code generation software, 148
Biotechnologies, 153–54, 221, 224
BITNET, 146
Bloom's taxonomy, 163
British Aerospace, 22
British system of education, 224–25
Business and industrial support, 221–22
Business practices, modern, 23–25

—C—

Canada/United States Free Trade Agreement (FTA), 24
Careers, exploration of future, 53
Carnegie Task Force, 125–26
Carpal Tunnel Syndrome, 25
Casting and molding, 13
Center for Implementing Technology Education (CITE), 78, 127, 151
Center for Robotics, 26–27
Central laboratory, in elementary setting, 49–50
Ceramic materials, 10
Chemical processes, 12
Chemical properties, 11
Chrysler Center for Technology, 137
CITE (Center for Implementing Technology Education), 78, 127, 151

Climate control, in facility design, 198
Cognitive domain, 163
  learning process in, 45–46
  testing procedures in assessing, 183
  verbs in, 164
Compressed air and combustible gases in facility design, 197–98
Computer, importance of, in the manufacturing area, 223–24
Computer-aided design (CAD), 5, 32, 34, 35, 92–93, 98, 103, 117, 145, 146, 154
Computer-aided manufacturing (CAM), 104, 148
Computer-assisted drafting (CAD) systems, 142
Computer data acquisition, 147
Computer-integrated manufacturing (CIM), 33, 34, 104, 148
Computer numerical control (CNC), 32, 34, 104, 117, 147
Computer simulation, 146
  in manufacturing education, 152
Computer software, 152
  in manufacturing education, 152
Conceptual Framework project, 224
Conceptual learning, 131, 169–72
  definition of, 170
  development of, in elementary program, 47, 53
  planning for, 170, 172
  reasons for providing, 170
Conditioning, 13
Conoco Incorporated, 23
Consumer products, producing, 12–14
Consumption system approach to manufacturing study, 8–9
Content
  delivering, 167
  selecting and organizing, 163
Controlling, as management function, 14
Convenience, as manufacturing trend, 34–35
Cooperative learning, 172–75
  advantages of, 172–73
  five-stage model for, 174, 175
  implementation of, 173
  planning for, 173, 175
Cotton gin, 28
Counterfeit products, problem of, 22
Creative thinking, development of, in elementary program, 51–52
Critical thinking, development of, in elementary program, 52–53
Curriculum, facilities to support approved, 189–90
Curriculum consultants, in elementary setting, 50–51
Curriculum guides, as resource for introductory manufacturing curriculum, 78–79
Curriculum models, new, 224–25

—D—

Deductive design of delivering content, 167
Demonstration, 169
Design experience, in modern manufacturing technology, 138
Design system approach to manufacturing study, 5, 6–8
Desktop publishing, 146
Developmental tasks
  in manufacturing education, 160–61

validity of, 160
Developing countries, manufacturing problems in, 27
Directing, as management function, 14
Discovery Channel, 151
Distillation, 224
Drinking fountains, 197
DuPont, and recycling, 29

—E—

Economics, in technological development, 136
Education. See also Elementary level; High school level; Middle school level need for improvements in, 35–36
Educational evaluation, in manufacturing technology program, 183–84
Educational reactions, to global changes, 219–21
Education for All Handicapped Children Act (PL 94–142), 199–200
Electrical kill switches, 197
Electrical/magnetic properties, 11
Electricity in facility design, 197
Electrochemical processing, 12
Elementary level
environmental considerations in, 208–9
facilities and resources at, 57–60, 193, 208–9 implementing manufacturing at, 49–51 interdisciplinary approach to, 208 learning process in students at, 43–48 manufacturing objectives at, 51–54
manufacturing technology at, 41–61
facilities and resources in, 57–60
implementation in, 49–51
learning process of students in, 43–48
objectives in, 51–54
value of studying manufacturing in, 42–43
sample applications in, 54–57
Environment
in elementary program, 208–9
in facilities, 211–12
in secondary program, 209–11
in teacher education programs, 211
in technological development, 136
Environmentalism, 221
Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), 21, 22, 29
European Economic Community (ECC), 24 formation of, 20
Evaluation, distinction between assessment and, 167–68
Exhaustible resources, 11

—F—

Facilities
characteristics of, 190–91
accessibility for special needs students, 199–200, 201
climate control, 198
compressed air and combustible gases, 197–98
design and resource area, 191–92

Facilities (cont.)
characteristics of (cont.)
electricity, 197
formal instructional area, 192–93
material and product storage area, 193–94 material processing area, 194–95
noise reduction, 198–99
office area, 196
safety considerations, 200–1
satellite, video, and interactive video, 199 security, 201
telephone, 199
utility systems, 196–98
water, 197
elementary level, 57–60
environmental considerations, 208
elementary program, 208–9
manufacturing facilities and public relations, 211 secondary program, 209–11
teacher education programs, 211
in supporting approved curriculum, 189–90 planning improvements, 201–2 analyzing resources, 205–6 determining facility needs, 202–5 establishing a schedule, 206–7
implementation and follow-up, 207–8 presenting developed plans for approval, 207
Factory (Sunburst Communications), 146
Fermentation, 224
Finances, in development of educational facilities, 206
Financial affairs, 15
Fire safety, 200–1
Flexible manufacturing systems (FMS), 32, 33, 34, 104, 148
Flow process charts, 103
Forming, 13
Free trade, problems presented by, 24–25

—G—

G-Codes, 147, 154
Global changes, educational reactions to, 219–21
Global society, role of manufacturing in, 20–23, 226–27
Government policies and regulations, 21–23
Greenhouse effect, 30
Green Peace, 21

—H—

High school level
environmental considerations at, 209–11
manufacturing technology at, 81–121
manufacturing enterprise in, 105–11
manufacturing materials and processes in, 86–92
manufacturing system design and engineering in, 99–105
objectives of, 83
potential course structures in, 86–111
potential curriculum model for, 84–86

product design and engineering in, 92–99
recommended structures for implementing, 112–16
technological systems model in, 81, 82
trends and directions in, 116–20
Holmes Group, 126, 129, 130
"Hour glass" model, 130–31, 133
Human growth and development, 160–61
Human-productive activity
approach to studying technology, 3, 84–85

— I —

IBM, and recycling, 29
Implementation of manufacturing technology
at the elementary level, 49–51
at the middle school level, 76–79
in planning facility improvements, 207–8
India, manufacturing problems in, 27
Inductive design of delivering content, 167
Industrial Arts Curriculum Project (IACP), 131, 134, 215
World of Manufacturing program, 151, 215
Industrial materials, producing, 12
Industrial products, producing, 12–14
Industrial relations, 15
Information age, teaching manufacturing in, 223–24
In-service program, in high school, 119–20
Inspection program, 105
Instructional materials, in preparation of manufacturing teachers, 150–51
Instructional objectives behavioral terms in, 172
writing, 165–66
Instructional resources, 60
definition of, 55, 57
Instructional strategies, 168–69
conceptual learning, 169–72
cooperative learning, 172–75
interdisciplinary approach, 176–78
selecting, 166–67
Instructional system development, 161–62
delivering content, 167
evaluating and assessing, 167–68
identifying types of learning, 163–65
selecting an instructional strategy, 166–67
selecting and organizing content, 163
writing objectives, 165–66
Integrated curriculum, 149–50
approaches to, 177–78
at the elementary level, 54
developing instructional team, 178–79 machine-centered versus, in high school, 116–17
rationale for, 176–77
Intelligent Manufacturing Systems (IMS) project, 24
Interdisciplinary approach, 176–78
approaches to, 177–78
in elementary level, 208
in high school, 117–19
rationale for, 176–77

International Technology Education Association, 152–53
Internet, 146
Interview, as self-report technique, 183
Intra-program activities, in manufacturing education, 149–50
Introduction to manufacturing technology course, contents of, 68–76
Introductory courses, 113

—J—

Jackson's Mill Curriculum Project, 3, 222
Japan, import problems of, 27–28
Junior high level. See Middle school level
Just-in-time (JIT) manufacturing, 20, 148

—K—

Kodak Corporation, 29

—L—

Landfills, problems of, 28–29
Language arts, in integrated manufacturing program, 55
Learners. See also Students needs of, 160–61
Learning, identifying types of, 163–65
Learning readiness, 160
Learning strategies, 160
Learning theory and styles, 159–60
  needs of learners in, 160–61
Lecture, 169
Local area networks (LANs), 199

—M—

Machine-centered versus integrated courses in high school, 116–17
Management, of manufacturing enterprise, 14–15
Managerial technology, 5
Manufactured products, using, 8–9
Manufacturing, 20
  as a technology, 4
  consumption system approach in, 5, 8–9
  definition of, 4–5, 41
  design system approach in, 5, 6–8
  global trends in, 31–36
  immediate and delayed consequences of, 28–30
  in multinational companies, 30, 31–36
  in today's global society, 20–25
  phases in, 9, 10
  planned and unplanned impacts of, 25–28 production system approach in, 5, 8 rationale and structures for studying, 1–16
  scope of content in, 4–15
  societal context of, 5
  synthesis of systems/approaches for the study of, 215–29 systems approach in, 217
  teaching, in an information age, 223–24
  value of studying, 42–43
Manufacturing educators. See Teacher
Manufacturing enterprises, 14–15, 139–42

study of, at high school level, 105–11
Manufacturing facilities. See also Facilities and public relations, 211
Manufacturing materials and processes, study of, at high school level, 86–92
Manufacturing system design and engineering, study of, at high school level, 99–105
Manufacturing teachers, instructional materials and the preparation of, 150–51
Manufacturing teaching/learning environment, 159–85 developing instructional system, 161–62
delivering content, 167
evaluating and assessing, 167–68
identifying types of learning, 163–65
selecting and organizing content, 163
selecting an instructional strategy, 166–67
writing objectives, 165–66
instructional strategies, 168–69
conceptual learning, 169–72
cooperative learning, 172–75
interdisciplinary approach, 176–78
problem solving, 179–82
learning theory and styles, 159–60
needs of learners, 160–61
strategies for evaluation, 182–84
Manufacturing technology education
at the elementary level, 41–61
facilities and resources in, 57–60
impact of virtual reality on, 155
implementation in, 49–51
interdisciplinary approach at, 208
learning process of students in, 43–48
objectives in, 51–54
sample applications in, 54–57
value of studying manufacturing in, 42–43, 217–22
at the high school level, 81–121
facilities at, 206, 209–11
interdisciplinary approach at, 117–19
manufacturing enterprise in, 105–11
manufacturing materials and processes in, 86–92
manufacturing system design and engineering in, 99–105
objectives of, 83
potential course structures and content in, 86–111
potential curriculum model for, 84–86
product design and engineering in, 92–99
recommended structures for implementing study, 112–16
technological systems model in, 81, 82
trends and directions in, 116–20
at the middle school level, 65–79
benefits of program, 67–68
elective course model in, 65–66

Manufacturing technology education (cont.)
at the middle school level (cont.)
facilities at, 205, 209–11
implementation strategies in, 76–79
middle school exploratory course model in, 66–67
sample manufacturing course in, 68–76
in teacher education programs, 125–56
conventional model, 129
diversity of teacher education programs, 125–27
facilities at, 211
general component, 128
Holmes Group model, 126, 129, 130
"hour glass" model, 130–31
in the future, 153–55
manufacturing education and the professional sequence, 148–53
manufacturing education and the technical/technological sequence, 132–48
professional component, 128 technical/technological component, 128 opportunities for, 228 significant developments in, 216
societal perspective of, 19–37
Market research, integration of, in manufacturing technology, 140–41
Marketing, 15
Maryland Plan, 215
Materials
at elementary level, 60
properties of, 11
securing, 11
types of, 9–11
Mathematics
in high schools, 118
in integrated manufacturing program, 56, 176–77
Mechanical processes, 12
Mechanical properties, 11
Metallic materials, 10
Metric system, U.S. reluctance in adapting, 23–24
Middle school level
design and resource area in, 192
environmental considerations, 209–11
manufacturing technology at, 65–79
benefits of program in, 67–68
elective course model in, 65–66
exploratory course model in, 66–67
implementation strategies in, 76–79
sample manufacturing course, 68–76
MIT Commission on Industrial Productivity, 217
Monsanto, and recycling, 29
Motivation, of the student, 160
Motivational programs, 105
Multimedia presentations in manufacturing education, 151–52
Multinational companies, manufacturing in, 30, 31–36
Multinational research initiative, 24

—N—

National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education, 127

National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, 176
Noise reduction, in facility design, 198–99
Numerical control (NC), 32–33

—O—

Observational techniques, 183
Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) regulations, 21
Operation process charts, 103
Optical properties, 11
Organizing, as management function, 14

—P—

Parke System, as resource for activities in manufacturing curriculum, 77
People's Republic of China, unplanned consequences of manufacturing in, 27
Physical properties, 11
Planning, as management function, 14
PLC (programmable logic controller), 33
Polymeric materials, 10
Problem
  determining good, 181
  identifying, 180–81
Problem solving
  definition of, 180
  development of skills in, in elementary program, 51–52
  in the manufacturing technology curriculum, 179–82 process of, 181–82
Process technology, 5
Proctor and Gamble, and recycling, 29
Product design and engineering, study of, at high school level, 92–99
Production, 15
Production system approach to manufacturing study, 5, 8
Products, producing, 8
Professionalism, and the aspiring teacher, 152–53
Project 2061, 2, 117–18, 176
Psychomotor domain, 164
  learning process in, 48
  verbs in, 165
Public Broadcasting System (PBS), 151
Public relations
  and manufacturing facilities, 211
  in high schools, 120
Public schools, comparison with teacher education, 127

—Q—

Quality, 33–34, 111
Quality Assurance program, 104–5
Questionnaire, as self-report technique, 183

—R—

Rapid prototyping, 154–55
Renewable resources, 11
Research and development (R & D), 15, 22
Rest rooms, 201
Resources approach to studying technology, 2–3
Robotic technology, 26–27, 104, 117
Rust belt, 30

— S —

Safety
in facilities, 200–1
in technological development, 136–37
Satellite, video, and interactive video in facility design, 199
Schedule, establishment of, in planning facility improvements, 206–7
School specialist, in elementary setting, 49
School year, lengthening, 220
Science, in integrated manufacturing program, 57, 176–77
Security, in facility design, 201
Self-report techniques, 183
Separating, 13
Simultaneous engineering, 102
Sinks, 201
Social motivation, 160
Social studies, in integrated manufacturing program, 56
Society of Manufacturing Engineers, 151, 152 development of curriculum materials for, 85
Space technology, 25–26
Special needs students, accessibility for, 199–200, 201
Specialization courses, 113
Stanley Tools Mass Production Contest, 215
Statistical quality control (SQC) techniques, 33–34
Stereo lithography, 154–55
Storage cabinets, at elementary level, 59–60, 194
Students. See also Learners focus on, in technology education, 225–26
learning process in young, 43–48
learning readiness of, 160
motivation of, 160
Synthesis courses, 113
Systems approach to manufacturing educational, 217

— T —

Task mastery, 160
Teacher
and need for lifelong learning, 228 future emphasis for, 222–26 professionalism and the aspiring, 152–53 program issues for, 226–28
role of technology, 49–50
Teacher centered, in elementary setting, 50
Teacher-directed strategies, 169
Teacher education, comparison with public schools, 127
Teacher education programs
environmental considerations in, 211–12
manufacturing technology in, 125–56 conventional model in, 129 diversity of teacher education programs in, 125–27
general component in, 128
Holmes Group model in, 126, 129, 130
"hour glass" model in, 130–31
in the future, 153–55
manufacturing education and the professional sequence, 148–53
manufacturing education and the technical/technological sequence, 132–48

professional component in, 128 technical/technological component in, 128 Teamwork
developing integrated instructional team, 178–79
in manufacturing enterprise experience, 139–40
in technological development, 137
TECA/SME "Live" Manufacturing Contest, 226
Technological actions, 5–9
Technological artifacts, 5
Technological development economics in, 136
environment in, 136
safety in, 136–37
teamwork in, 137
Technological devices, 7
Technology
definition of, 1–2, 81
manufacturing as, 4
studying, 2–4, 81–83
Technology education, as general education, 218–19
Technology Education Collegiate Association (TECA), 152–53, 226
Technology Student Association (TSA), 226
Technology teacher, role of, in elementary setting, 49–50
Telecommunications, 146
Telephone, in facility design, 199
Testing procedures, in assessing cognitive learning, 183
Texaco, and recycling, 29
Thermal processes, 12
Thermal properties, 11
Timeliness, as manufacturing trend, 35
Tool cart, 58
Tools, at elementary level, 58
Total quality management (TQM), 33
Trade barriers, costs of, 22
Trademarks, benefits from, 22–23
Traveling teacher, in elementary setting, 49

—U—

Union Carbide Corporation, 29
and recycling, 30
United Nations, 21
Universal systems model, on teaching technology, 3–4

—V—

Variety, as manufacturing trend, 34
Video facilities, 199
Virginia's Public Education Network (Virginia's PEN), 146
Virtual reality, impact upon manufacturing education, 155

—W—

Wash basins, 201
Water, in facility design, 197
Westinghouse, and recycling, 29
Workstations, at elementary level, 59